What's next?!

Congrats on booking your wedding venue and thank you for choosing Havasu Springs Resort. We are so excited to host such a special occasion! This packet is meant to guide you through the planning process with us and to provide you with a few tips and tricks to help you along the way.

Payment Procedure & Deadlines

Second payment is the remainder of the venue fees (including tax and gratuity) due 60 days prior. Final payment is food and beverage and miscellaneous rental items due 10 days prior. You are able to make periodic payments to your account (ex. monthly payments). All payments are processed through our main office. Please contact a venue coordinator prior to making a payment.

Forms of payment accepted: cash, check, money order and credit card

Next Steps

Reach out to our Food & Beverage director to schedule your complimentary food tasting. A few things to remember: Please limit the tasting to a maximum of 6 people. Please provide our F&B director with a couple different menu selections you would like to try. Weekend tastings are limited during wedding season. Schedule your tasting as soon as you can to lock in current menu pricing.

Schedule your complimentary consultation with our florist, Melanie, at Meraki Botanical Designs. If you are from out of town and can't make it for a floral consultation she can work with you via phone and email as well. We do require you to utilize Meraki Botanical Designs if you plan on hiring a professional florist, but we also allow DIY floral elements. However, we encourage all of our couples to at least take advantage of a complimentary consultation with Melanie. She is incredibly talented and passionate about floral design and her pricing is very reasonable.

Venue vs. Wedding Coordinator

The truth is Venue Coordinators do not actually coordinate weddings. What they do is fabulously manage the venue, make sure the kitchen staff is operating seamlessly and on time, and confirm that all rules are being followed. Most of the time that is where their responsibilities end, but some venues have Venue Coordinators that will assist with rehearsal and grand entrance, provide guidance with the wedding timeline and help with setup. It never hurts to ask about their responsibilities (plus it should be listed in your contract)!

You can ask questions like:

1. Can we schedule multiple meetings and a walk through prior to the wedding?
2. Will you assist with the timeline?
3. Will you be present at the rehearsal?
4. Will you facilitate the rehearsal?
5. Will you be present on the day of the wedding and how accessible will you be?

It is better to know ahead of time what to expect of the Venue Coordinator, so you can be prepared and have the chance to hire a Wedding Coordinator early on. Bottom line is the Venue Coordinator does not work for the couple; he or she works for the venue. So naturally the Venue Coordinator's main focus is not on the bride or groom; it is on the venue. He or she acts as a liaison between the couple and the venue's operations team. The responsibilities of the Venue Coordinator pertain to the couple's experience with the wedding venue, while also protecting it. Therefore don't expect the venue coordinator to be at your beck and call.

They won't be keeping track of the rings, making sure the marriage license gets signed, and generally they won't answer questions like:

1. What time does the photographer arrive?
2. Where and when are the flowers being delivered?
3. Who is going to control the ceremony music?
4. Who will have the rings and the marriage license?
5. What is the order of the wedding ceremony?
6. Where and when are the family portraits taking place?
7. Where and when are we doing the first look?

I will tell you who can answer those questions: a Wedding Coordinator. A wedding coordinator will answer all of those questions and so many more! A Wedding Coordinator is someone that is not contracted through the venue and is hired by the couple. This means they are working for the couple and only the couple. Their main priority is bringing the couple's dream wedding to fruition. Have a blister and need a Band-Aid? The Wedding Coordinator is on it! Is there a last minute seating chart change? You can find the Wedding Coordinator at the local print shop having a new seating chart printed. The point is the Wedding Coordinator is on the couple's team and will do whatever it takes to make their special day as perfect as it can be.

Venue Coordinators should really be called Venue Managers (great managers at that!) and maybe there would be less confusion, but I can assure you the term 'Venue Coordinator' is not going anywhere! When in doubt hire a pro Wedding Coordinator to help out ;).
